

SARAH ARMSTRONG TUCKER, PH.D. Chancellor

"Seemingly at every turn, West Virginia is announcing that another business is choosing to locate or expand here..."

This year, we announced that West Virginia's college-going rate – the number of high school seniors who enroll in either a community college or a four-year institution after graduation – dipped to 45.9 percent for the graduating class of 2021. This was down from 48.2 percent in 2020, and 50.5 percent in 2019.

These aren't just troubling numbers; these are concerning realities for our young people - and for our state's future. It is undeniable that the COVID-19 pandemic affected our students' education and, potentially, their plans after high school graduation. But I believe there is so much more to the story – and that's why our office is doubling down on efforts to support students more strongly than ever before in getting the training or education they need to be successful.

What we're seeing in West Virginia with our college-going rate isn't unique to our state. It is undoubtedly a nationwide trend. But we have the capacity here to expand on and create new efforts to help our young people focus on their futures.

In talking with students throughout the year, what we've found is that they are thinking about college from a much different perspective. It's no longer about which institution they'd like to attend just for the college experience. Instead, and much more wisely, they're thinking about higher education in terms of the careers and future it can assure them.

Seemingly at every turn, West Virginia is announcing that another business is choosing to locate or expand here – creating and preserving good-paying jobs for our people. But the other insight we've gained in talking with students this year is that they simply don't know about these jobs. Many of them want to stay here, in their home state, but they don't believe there are opportunities for them after they earn a credential. So, how can we better share the message that those opportunities do exist, and that completing training or education after high school is the best path forward to take full advantage of them?

Our office is continuing to build new programming and resources to deliver the promise of an education and rewarding career opportunities to students right here at home. This year, we implemented a new student financial aid management system to simplify the process of connecting students with an array of grants and scholarships. We continue our statewide outreach through "College for West Virginia" - cfwv.com with information and resources to help students and families explore educational and career opportunities and plan for college. Additionally, our West Virginia GEAR UP program, which provides college planning and readiness services, is expected to serve an additional 17,500 West Virginia middle and high school students over the next seven years thanks to a $24 million grant from the U.S. Department of Education.

These are just some of the ways our office is working to help West Virginians land and stay on a path that will lead them to promising careers. We look forward to creating even more opportunities – together with our state's leaders, agency partners, business, and industry - through policies and programming to increase the college-going rate and help more of our citizens succeed. If we do, we will build up an incredibly strong workforce that can meet the growing demands of a stronger West Virginia economy.

2022 HIGHLIGHTS

EMS WV: ANSWER THE CALL INITIATIVE

In June, Governor Jim Justice launched the EMS WV: Answer the Call initiative to address the state's need for additional Emergency Medical Services (EMS) professionals - a challenge that was exacerbated by the COVID-19 pandemic. Funded through $10 million in CARES Act dollars, the program provided for, among other efforts, the purchase of state-of-the-art mobile ambulance simulators to offer professional training in rural parts of the state, a marketing campaign highlighting EMS careers in West Virginia, and nocost EMT training through community and technical colleges and local agencies. Through the no-cost training, 862 new EMTs were trained to enter the workforce fully credentialed. More information: emswv.com.

NURSING WORKFORCE EXPANSION

In December 2021, Governor Justice committed $48 million to address West Virginia's nursing workforce shortage through a multi-pronged plan to train, attract, and retain nurses in the state. Higher education played a significant role in this initiative, with $24 million dedicated to expanding enrollment in nursing programs. As a result, 716 new RN students were enrolled in expanded programs for the 2022-23 academic year, and 94 new LPN seats were filled in expanded programs - for a total of 810 new students in the first year. The initiative also fully funded the West Virginia Nursing Scholarship program for the 2022-23 academic year, supporting 380 students. A marketing campaign nearly doubled the number of scholarship applications from previous years. More information: wvnursingworkforce.org.

UNDERWOOD-SMITH TEACHING SCHOLARS BEGIN THEIR JOURNEY

This fall, the third cohort of Underwood-Smith Teaching Scholars started their journey at colleges and universities across the state. Twenty-seven graduating high school seniors were selected this year to receive the state's newest and most prestigious scholarship, which was created by the Legislature in 2019, to help West Virginia address ongoing teacher shortages in the fields of math, science, special education, and elementary education. Recipients commit to teaching in one of these high-demand fields for at least five years after graduation. To give students the greatest chance at success, each is paired with a practicing classroom teacher mentor who provides guidance throughout their college career. #### WEST VIRGINIA INVESTS GRADUATES TO YIELD $10 MILLION FOR STATE'S ECONOMY BY 2025

In January, a report considering the early economic effects of the West Virginia Invests grant found that the program's first two cohorts of graduates are estimated to yield a $10 million impact on the state's economy by 2025. By comparison, the estimated tuition costs for these students were $3.5 million. In March 2019, the West Virginia Legislature passed

Senate Bill 1, which established West Virginia Invests as a last-dollarin grant program, allowing students to use other federal and/or state financial aid awards first, with West Virginia Invests covering the remaining costs of tuition and fees for certificate or associate degree programs at the state's nine community and technical colleges. More information: collegeforwv.com/wvinvests.

WEST VIRGINIA HIGHER EDUCATION

The 2022 West Virginia Higher Education Almanac provides year-end higher education statistics for both of the state's higher education systems, the West Virginia Higher Education Policy Commission (Commission) and West Virginia Council for Community and Technical College Education (Council).

When reviewing the statistics in this report, it is important to carefully consider the data definitions for each metric, which are found at the end of the document. This is particularly important when it comes to the cohort, or group of students, of which the statistic is reflective. For example, there are fundamental differences between "full-time" and "part-time" students that can have a drastic effect on the reported data.

This edition of the Almanac provides high-level summary statistics for each institution, with a focus on the 2021-2022 academic year. Detailed historical data are available through the interactive data portal - Explorer - at:

http://www.wvhepc.edu/resources/data-and-publication-center

Explorer provides the most current data available for every institution within both the two- and fouryear systems. The data are updated throughout the year as they become available. #### TOTAL ANNUAL HEADCOUNT

2021-22 Academic Year | Summer, Fall and Spring End-of-Term Data

Annual headcount enrollment values represent the total number of unique students who enrolled in credit-bearing classes during the summer, fall and spring terms in a given academic year at a specific institution.

DUAL ENROLLMENT HEADCOUNT

2021-22 Academic Year | Summer, Fall and Spring End-of-Term Data
