Simulator Requirements

The simulator must be self-contained with interactive computer-generated imagery.

Simulator must be delivered, installed, and fully tested as a turnkey system—including all software and hardware required to support the training and development of professional vehicle operators.

The simulator system shall be a complete, functional operating system that has been factory assembled, wired tested, and is ready to operate upon installation within the user's facility. The Contractor shall be required to demonstrate the use and application of the Truck Driving Simulator System to ensure the delivered system operates as prescribed by the specifications herein.

The simulator should create a virtual driving world that provides an environment where trainees may drive. The database should be similar to the real world and include urban, suburban, rural, industrial areas with buildings and foliage typically found in these regions. Highways must be a part of the imagery allowing all of the driving areas to be integrated into one virtual world.

The simulator should provide training opportunities with respect to situational awareness, judgment and decision-making skills, vehicle maneuvering skills, and skills assessment for driver trainees in the safe operation of a truck. Software should include a variety of truck vehicle dynamics models. Simulated driving surfaces should include pavement, grass, gravel, and dirt/sand with traction and sound variations on each for both dry and wet conditions. Weather conditions should include clear, variable fog, rain, and snow/ice. Light conditions should be selectable by time-of-day period: day, night, or dawn/dusk. Sun glare to be provided when driving to the West at sunset and to the East at sunrise.

Operation of the simulator should be placed under the control of a trained instructor operator from the instructor console who will interact with and/or critique the driver trainee (as appropriate) to meet the training needs. The instructor should maintain control over weather and other real-time variables that affect road surface conditions, visibility, traffic situations, and vehicle performance.

System Components

The simulator should be built using actual and/or representative parts and components. The simulator should include a driver's seat, active steering wheel, foot pedals, transmission selector, and other appropriate operational controls, gauges, indicators, and switches along with a simulated truck cab enclosure. All sight lines and angles required to safely operate a truck should be accurately represented to the student operator.

The simulator should include a real time computer system which: 1) simulates the functionality and dynamics of the vehicle, 2) controls "out-the-window" visual scenes and vehicle sounds as they relate to driving and student performance, 3) provides appropriate outputs to the trainee's dashboard instruments, 4) senses and responds to inputs via driver controls, 5) interfaces with the instructor operator station, and 6) provides realistic interaction with other driving stations networked in the same scenario.

The simulator must include high-quality computer-generated imagery. The driving simulator shall include at least four (4) flat screen displays consisting of a forward view, left side view, right side window view and mirror images (both flat and convex for vehicles that utilize both) to present a continuous horizontal visual field-of-view of at least 180 degrees.

Simulator should include mirror images that are inset in the displays. The size and relative position of the mirror images should automatically change to correctly replicate the vehicle being simulated. All mirror images should be remotely adjustable by the driver in real time during any training scenario.

The simulator should include a surround sound system, which generates appropriate vehicle motor and other operational sounds of an actual truck. A radio (intercom) system should be integrated into the driving station. The radio can be used to support appropriate dispatcher/radio communications activity and training for the student driver through interaction with the instructor.

The instructor station should be able to be used to facilitate all training activities. The instructor should be able to control the operation of the simulator, select training scenarios, replay all or portions of the session to highlight good or bad driving performance, perform record keeping of individual training sessions and overall utilization. Intercom or radio equipment should enable the instructor to "role play" all pertinent radio communications to the student drivers.

Training Objectives

The objective is to train vehicle operators in the driving skills, decision-making and radio communications (multi-tasking) skills essential to their jobs.

Basic Driving Skills

The simulator should enable instruction and testing of basic driving skills such as driving on a variety of roadways, cornering, and all Commercial Driver License (CDL) maneuvers. This pertains to job applicants, newly hired drivers, re-training of current drivers, or problem drivers needing remedial training in these areas. In addition, the simulator should enable instruction and evaluation of other fundamental driver skills such as proper signaling, use of mirrors, and basic radio techniques while driving.

Maneuvering and Interacting with Traffic

The simulator should enable instruction and testing for maneuvering in typical urban, suburban, rural and residential areas. Skills to include lane position management, maneuvering in vehicular and pedestrian traffic, adherence to posted and un-posted traffic laws, and forward planning.

Emergency Response Judgment and Decision Making

The simulator should provide scripted scenarios for both training and evaluating judgment/decision-making skills such as intersection analysis, lane choice, speed, and vehicle positioning.

Vehicle Simulation

The vehicle performance model should provide an accurate representation of all components of the vehicle being simulated. A full power train (engine, transmission, axle ratio); accurate vehicle brakes; a suspension system; plus the steering system are modeled.

The vehicle model should respond to forces dependent on vehicle speed, road friction conditions, and driver inputs. Vehicle models should react to the driver's inputs and provide the necessary data to the simulator to support an appropriate response from the instruments of the driving station.

The instructor should have the ability to select the vehicle type and also vary any available characteristic from the instructor operator station. The performance of the vehicle should change in response to the selected variable conditions and affects the handling and driving characteristics experienced by the student driver.

The instructor should also be able to select vehicle equipment failures such as engine temperature, low air pressure, check engine, low fuel and steering axle tire blowout. All of which should be conveyed to the student in the same manner as an actual vehicle conveys them such as audible alarms, indicator lights, and/or vehicle performance responses.

Vehicle Dynamics

The simulator's vehicle dynamics should allow for representative sizes and weights for straight and articulated trucks. The vehicle should handle correctly on all variations of road and surface conditions with variable loads. Turning radius, acceleration and deceleration characteristics should be correctly represented.

Response to Terrain Changes

Driving on pavement/concrete, gravel, dirt, sand, and grass areas with dry, rain, snow/ice, and icy conditions produces the appropriate effects. Traction (acceleration and braking) should be correctly represented.

Radio Communications

The simulator should include an integrated realistic radio communication unit. The instructor should have the ability to initiate/participate in a role play with the simulator drivers. The instructor should have the ability to communicate in real time with the simulator drivers through the radio communications unit. In addition, simulator drivers also have the ability to communicate with each other in linked training scenarios.

Transmission Selector

The simulator should have a heavy-duty manual transmission and/or a five-speed automatic transmission. The Engine sounds should change as a function of gear and changes in engine speed (RPM). A brake application must be made to shift the simulated vehicle out of the neutral (N) position when using the automatic transmission.

Gauges and Dials

The simulator should utilize actual and/or representative components for selected active controls and gauges. Minimum active controls include brake, accelerator, gear selector, turn signals, essential light switches, and essential indicator lights. Active gauges include speedometer, air pressure gauge, and various warning/indicator lights. Non-active gauges (such as fuel gauge and voltmeter) are set at an appropriate nominal readout position.

Vehicles/Pedestrians

The virtual driving world should include unique vehicles that can interact with student vehicles. Various types of cars, trucks, buses and municipal vehicles should be included, as well as pedestrians including men, women and children. The system should also include animals that can interfere with driving such as dogs and deer.

Collision Detection

The simulator software should define appropriate collision parameters for all objects in the visual database, including buildings, signs, fences, trees, and other vehicles placed in the visual scene. The software should detect any collision of the trainee vehicle with any other vehicle or object. The instructor should be able to repair a trainee vehicle after a collision and continue with training.

Computer Image Generation Out-the-Window Scene

The out-the-window scene should be correct for each simulated vehicle and changes automatically for each vehicle upon vehicle selection. Rearview mirrors are provided for views behind and to the sides of the trainee's vehicle. Each rearview mirror should represent the appropriate field of view the driver would see from the vehicle being simulated.

Weather

Weather affects driving surface conditions; the effects of rain, fog, and snow/ice on paved and unpaved surfaces should be included.

Time of Day

Time of day should be selectable from the Instructor Operator Station twenty-four hours a day in increments no greater than ten minutes. This allows training in various levels of light (and darkness). Sun glare should be provided in the early morning hours when driving to the East and in the evening when driving to the West.

Training Scenarios

The following training scenarios should be provided to meet specified training objectives. The common driving world provides the ability to drive from any area to any other. A trainee should be able to begin a scenario in the city, drive through the suburbs, onto the highway, exit to the industrial area and end the scenario in the rural area. All streets, roads, and expressways should be designed in accordance with U.S. federal and state highway specifications for grade, width, curvature, and overpass height. All traffic control devices and highway markings should meet U.S. federal and state guidelines. All traffic signals (stop lights) should be fully functional.

Training scenarios specifically developed for truck driver training should be provided to include the following:

- Basic Driving Skills and Control Skills
- Maneuvering in Urban and Residential Areas
- City and City Expressway Driving Areas
- Suburban Driving Areas
- Country Driving Areas
- Light Industrial Driving Areas

Sounds

The simulator should include a surround sound audio system that generates sound consistent with the visual scenes and drivers' actions. Should include, but not be limited to, sounds such as: squeal of tires, proper engine sounds, road noise, air brakes, sirens, horns, collision sounds, wind, rain, thunder, radio, and two-way radio.

Instructor Console

The Instructor Console /Workstation should include a PC, keyboard, optical-mechanical mouse with an LCD 20" (or larger) flat screen monitor and mouse. The computer system shall be professionally installed, and all wires shall be concealed from view. The instructor will use this station to start and stop the simulator, select the vehicle type for the trainee, set environmental conditions (fog, rain, etc.), monitor the student's actions and skill level, initiate "replay" and "restart" features for the student, perform record keeping and scenario development. The instructor console should provide a full-color windows format display and mouse selectable (point-and-click) menu-driven functions for easy operation. Instructor personnel should require only simple training in the functionality.

The instructor console/workstation should allow for loading of operational programs, performing system maintenance, conducting diagnostics and troubleshooting, changing system level parameters, setting up the driving simulations, monitoring student driver actions and reactions to driving situations, recording student performance data and initiating system shutdown.

Student Evaluation

Data records should be able to be stored in a database that will remain accessible from the Instructor Console. Data should be able to be sorted by categories such as date, student name, job class, instructor name, class type, or other criteria. Selected data should be able to be displayed at the Instructor Console for review at the time of session and in the future.

Exhibit C

GUIDELINES FOR VENDORS FOR BID SUBMISSIONS VIA EMAIL

NOTE: This document is specific to the competitive solicitation processes, where bid submissions must arrive at the closing location on time.

1. Purpose of These Guidelines

The Commission/Council may post opportunities that allow vendors to submit their bids / proposals / responses (known as submissions) electronically via email. This document is intended to assist vendors in understanding:

- the risks associated with submitting an emailed submission; and
- the pitfalls that should be avoided if emailing a submission.

NOTE: Vendors who deliver submissions via email do so at their own risk; the Commission/Council does not take any responsibility for any emailed submission that:

- does not arrive on time;
- is rejected; or
- contains corrupted electronic files.

2. Risks

Although emails are sent every day without incident, there are a number of risks that could occur and delay the receipt of an email. An email submission is deemed to have been received once it arrives in the Commission/Council's Electronic Mail System. Emailed submissions that arrive late will not be considered, regardless of the reason, and vendors will not have the option to resubmit after the closing date and time.

Following are some of the reasons that may delay an email, or cause an email to be rejected by the Commission/Council's email system:

- i. Delays can occur as an email moves from server to server between the sender and the recipient, meaning that the time when an email is received can be later – and sometimes considerably later – than the time when it was sent. The Commission/Council will consider the time that an email was received by the Commission/Council's email system as the official time for any emailed submission.
- ii. The Commission/Council's email system has technical and security limitations on the size and type of files that will be accepted. Emails containing attachments that exceed 30 MB cannot be accepted.
- iii. The Commission/Council's email system has protocols whereby an email may be investigated as potential spam or containing a virus / malware. Such protocols may result in an email being sent to the recipient's inbox late.
- iv. The Commission/Council's email system has protocols whereby an email may be investigated as having Personally Identifiable Information (PII). An email determined by the system to contain PII or data of a similar appearance of PII will not be delivered.

- v. The Commission/Council's email system is designed to reject any email that is considered spam or that contains a virus or malware. On occasion, an email may be falsely flagged and rejected. Copies of rejected emails are not kept in the email system, and therefore no possibility exists to retrieve an emailed submission that has been rejected.
- vi. In addition, it is possible that one or more attachments to an email to become corrupted and therefore inaccessible to the Commission/Council's email system. Vendor will not have the option to resubmit after closing if the attachments cannot be opened. Further, the Commission/Council cannot open any submission prior to closing to confirm whether or not the files have been corrupted.

3. Vendor Guidance for Emailed Submissions

1. Never assume that a solicitation allows for emailed submissions. Emails should only be used as a delivery mechanism when the opportunity expressly allows for it.
2. Never assume which email address is being used for submissions, when emailed submissions are permitted. Carefully read the instructions and ask questions well in advance of closing if the email address for submissions is not clear. Submissions that are emailed to any address other than the one expressly stated for the purpose may be rejected as missing a mandatory requirement of the solicitation.
3. Avoid using generic subject lines in the emailed submissions that do not clearly identify the solicitation name and / or number as well as the vendor organization name. The subject line of the email should be: BID FOR xxxxxxxxx DUE WEDNESDAY xxxxxxxxxx AT 3:00PM. A sample email subject line for an open bid might be: BID FOR 21001 DUE WEDNESDAY, APRIL 7, 2021 AT 3:00PM.
4. Avoid multiple emails from the same vendor for the same opportunity wherever possible. If multiple emails cannot be avoided (e.g., the collective size of the emails exceeds the maximum size allowed), identify how many emails constitute the full submission and provide clear instructions on how to assemble the submission. Multiple submissions from the same vendor for the same opportunity may result in rejection if these instructions are unclear.
5. Vendors may update, change, or withdraw their submission at any time prior to the closing date and time. If emailing updates or changes, do not submit only the changes that then require collation with the previous submission. Instead, a complete revised package with clear instructions that it replaces the earlier submission should be sent. This will help to avoid any confusion as to what constitutes the complete submission.

6. Avoid emailing submissions in the last 60 minutes that the solicitation is open. Sufficient time should be left prior to closing to ensure that the email was received, and to resubmit before closing if a problem occurs.
7. Do not assume that the email has been received. If a confirmation email is not received shortly after sending the email, contact the named Contact on the solicitation to confirm whether or not their submission was received. In addition, send the emailed submission with a delivery receipt request. If unsure how to send an email with a delivery receipt request, contact the vendor's own system support personnel or search online for instructions specific to the vendor's email system (e.g., Outlook, Gmail, etc.)
8. If the confirmation email is not received, do not resubmit without first contacting the named Contact. Resending a submission should only occur once confirmation is received that the original email was not received, and enough time is left for receipt of the submission prior to the closing date and time.
9. Do not ignore any message from the Commission/Council regarding rejection of an emailed submission. If such a message is received prior to closing, contact the named Contact on the opportunity immediately.
10. If time permits prior to closing, possible remedies for a rejected or missing emailed submission include:
 - i. If the collective size of the emailed attachments exceeds 30 MB, resubmit it over multiple emails, clearly identify how many emails constitute the full submission and how to collate the files.
 - ii. If the emailed submission included zipped or executable files, unzip or remove the executable the files and resubmit over one or more emails (see previous bullet if the files collectively exceed 30 MB).
 - iii. Resend the submission from a different email account.
 - iv. If permitted in the opportunity, use an alternative method to deliver the submission (e.g., mailed or hand delivered).

Note: None of these remedies are applicable after the closing date and time.
